

Fartboy Army

Complete Leaderboard, Contribution and Reward System

Objective: evolve the Raid Army into the Fartboy Army and move the incentive away from mass raiding towards creation, quality, consistency and broad community participation. Raiding remains useful, but becomes a supporting activity rather than the main game.

Reward Priority

Priority	Contribution
1	Community videos
2	Personal X posts
3	Community memes
4	Raids / DEX Screener / CoinMarketCap / CoinGecko / GeckoTerminal / CTO X suggestions
5	Speaking in General and Charts & TA
6	Making emoji reactions in General, Charts & TA, Community Memes, Community Videos, Personal Posts and CTO X Suggestions

Personal X Posts

- Personal posts become a central feature of the Fartboy Army.
- Maximum 2 rewarded personal posts per member per 24 hours.
- The first post should be worth roughly 5-10x a standard raid. The exact rate can be decided later.
- The second post is worth half the base points of the first.
- Target behaviour is roughly 1 quality personal post per day, or at least 4-5 per week.
- Positive and negative Discord emoji reactions apply a quality multiplier to the post's base points. The exact multiplier formula and limits can be decided later.
- Personal posts are not raid posts. Members do not receive raid points for engaging with them.

Raids and Snipes

- Maximum 5 rewarded raids per member per 24 hours, or 35 per week. More opportunities can still be posted, but only 5 per day can earn raid points.
- Rename Posts-to-Raid to a clearer name such as Raid Opportunities or Sniper Posts/Raids.
- Snipers can submit as many worthwhile X opportunities as they find. The cap applies to rewarded participation, not the number of opportunities available.
- Live YouTube links can also be posted in the Posts-to-Raid / Raid Opportunities channel as raid opportunities.
- Generals within the Fartboy Army can also snipe and submit opportunities directly into Posts-to-Raid / Raid Opportunities.
- The aim is to stop incentivising the same people to hit every post and instead distribute participation across more opportunities and more members.
- Only Snipers and Core Team should normally be able to post X links directly in General. CTO/Core Team can occasionally surface important X posts there when additional visibility is useful.

Other Rewarded Contributions

- Community videos receive the highest weighting.
- Community memes receive meaningful creation points.
- DEX Screener, CoinMarketCap, CoinGecko and GeckoTerminal activity can earn points, with tight daily caps.
- Useful suggestions in the CTO X Post Suggestions channel can earn points.
- Speaking in General and Charts & TA can earn points, with daily caps and anti-spam controls.
- Members making emoji reactions in General, Charts & TA, Community Memes, Community Videos, Personal Posts and CTO X Suggestions can earn small points. A starting concept is roughly 1/10th of the value of actually speaking.
- Daily and weekly consistency should earn bonuses so sustained contribution beats short bursts of activity.

Channels and Access

- Rename the Raid Army to the Fartboy Army.
- Rename Personal Posts-to-Raid to Personal Posts because the channel exists for creation and scoring, not organised raiding.
- Archive the old FB Memes and FB Videos channels and replace them with Community Memes and Community Videos, where content points are counted.
- Consider deleting or repurposing Raid Army Chat and Content Creator if the new structure makes them redundant.
- Recruit is the first Fartboy Army rank. Reaching Recruit unlocks permission to submit Personal Posts, Community Memes and Community Videos.
- Basic access restrictions should therefore exist on the Personal Posts, Community Memes and Community Videos channels.

Fartboy Army Ranks

Status	Contribution Score	Meaning
No Rank	0% to <1%	Not yet qualified
Recruit	1% to <20%	Active member; creation channels unlocked
Sergeant	20% to <40%	Regular contributor
Captain	40% to <60%	Strong contributor
Commander	60% to <80%	High contributor
General	80%+	Top-tier contributor; can snipe and submit raid opportunities

The 1% Recruit threshold should be deliberately easy for a genuine active member to cross through normal Discord participation, while still creating a basic barrier against scammers.

Creation > quality > consistency > participation > raiding.

Recommended Points and Percentage Model

A starting framework. Exact rates should be tuned after observing real community behaviour.

What the percentage should mean

- Use a rolling 7-day Contribution Score rather than lifetime points.
- Define 100% as an excellent but realistically achievable week of Fartboy contribution.
- A member's rolling 7-day points are divided by the weekly 100% target to determine their percentage and rank.
- This makes rank responsive to current contribution and automatically rewards consistency.
- Do not permanently lock the raw thresholds at launch. Run the system for 2-4 weeks, observe the distribution, then calibrate the 100% target.

Suggested Weighting of an Ideal Week

Area	Indicative share of ideal-week value
Community videos	35%
Personal X posts	30%
Community memes	15%
Raids / market-platform actions / CTO suggestions	10%
General + Charts & TA activity	8%
Emoji reactions	2%

Illustrative Starting Rates

Action	Suggested starting rate / cap
Personal X post	1st = 10 pts; 2nd = 5 pts per 24h; then apply quality multiplier
Community video	15-25 base pts each; cap TBD; eligible for quality multiplier
Community meme	5-10 base pts each; cap TBD; eligible for quality multiplier
Raid	1 pt each; max 5 rewarded/day
DEX Screener / CMC / CoinGecko / GeckoTerminal	Small points with tight per-platform / daily caps
CTO X suggestion	Small-medium points when accepted or qualified
Chat contribution	Low points with a daily cap and anti-spam controls
Emoji reaction	Approx. 1/10th of a qualifying chat action; daily cap
Consistency	Bonus for contributing across 3, 5 and 7 separate days

Quality Multiplier

- Personal posts, memes and videos can start with base points and then receive a community quality multiplier based on positive and negative Discord reactions.
- Positive community response should provide more upside than negative response provides downside.

- The multiplier should have diminishing returns and a sensible maximum so reaction farming cannot dominate the leaderboard.
- The exact formula and cap can be decided after testing.

Consistency

- Reward activity spread across separate days rather than allowing one large burst to dominate.
- Example structure: small bonus at 3 active days, larger bonus at 5 active days, maximum bonus at 7 active days.
- A member should not be able to reach General simply by farming one category. Caps should make diversified, sustained contribution the rational strategy.

How the ranks should feel

Rank	Target behaviour
Recruit	Easy for a genuine active member; mainly an anti-scam / access threshold
Sergeant	Someone participating regularly across the week
Captain	A meaningful creator and community participant
Commander	A consistently high contributor across multiple categories
General	Prestigious; sustained top-tier contribution; can also snipe and submit raid opportunities

Recommended Launch Approach

- Launch with provisional rates and caps rather than pretending the first numbers are final.
- Track 2-4 weeks of real behaviour.
- Check what percentage of active members reach each rank and where farming behaviour appears.
- Then adjust the weekly 100% target, category caps and quality multiplier so Recruit remains accessible, Captain means something, Commander is difficult and General remains prestigious.
- Keep the relative hierarchy stable even if individual point values change: videos first, personal posts second, memes third, supporting actions fourth, chat fifth and emoji reactions sixth.